INTRODUCTORY INFORMATION AND READINGS

ROLE OF CHAIRS/DIRECTORS

Department Chairs

By Artin Arslanian

(Bennett and Figuli, eds., Enhancing Departmental Leadership, pp. 5-7)

It was by a haphazard process of selection that I became chair of a medium-sized department (10 FTE's). I came to the position unexpectedly and quite unprepared. This was true for many of the new chairs on campus. Most of us had not read about departmental leadership, and our requests to the administration of the college for an orientation seminar went unanswered. Although some of us solicited advice from experienced chairs on campus, it is safe to say that we embarked on our tasks with little experience but full of good intentions. We were resolved to nurture departmental collegiality, encourage excellence in teaching and scholarship, and improve the departmental image on

TOMORROW'S ACADEMIA: ADVICE FOR FUTURE DEPARTMENT CHAIRS

The Stanford University Center for Teaching and Learning

Each committee you work with will educate you about another aspect of your department and how it works. Serving on college- or institution-wide committees can also expand your contact with the individuals and offices that can help you do your job better when you're chair. Volunteering for search committees outside your area can be particularly productive: You'll improve the skills needed to implement searches yourself, and you'll have an opportunity to ask candidates about methods used to solve particular problems at the institutions where they're currently working or studying. All committee work, no matter how dreary or routine, will provide you with at least some new insights or perspectives. Don't lose the chance to take full advantage of these opportunities.

LESSONS LEARNED AS A DEPARTMENT CHAIR

The Stanford University Center for Teaching and Learning <http://ctl.stanford.edu>. An archive of all past postings (with a two week delay) can be found at <http://cgi.stanford.edu/~dept-ctl/cgi-bin/tomprof/postings.php>

Folks:

The posting below is a valuable "lessons learned" list from a former department chair, Matthew Lombard, of the Department of Broadcasting, Telecommunications and Mass Media at Temple University in Philadelphia, (lombard@temple.edu). The comments should be of interest to both regular faculty and other department chairs.

Lessons Learned as a Department Chair

For whatever it may or may not be worth, before I end this last message as chair I want to tell you some of the things I've learned or had reinforced while in the job (apologies to tho Tc 0 Tw 41.3014c 43.

MYTHS THAT MAKE CHAIRS FEEL THEY ARE POWERLESS

From the November 1999 AAHE Bulletin

Six fallacies that stifle change — and how to overcome them

By Ann F. Lucas

After decades of giving unquestioning respect, the public has become demanding, critical, and angry

1. "I am elected by my colleagues to serve at their pleasure for only three or four years, then I will be a faculty member again. Therefore, there is nothing I can do to deal with the problems."

The belief in an inability to do anything as chair because a person is simply a peer among equals conveys an aura of humility and democracy in action; yet it can effectively leave a department without a leader. Particularly when a chair is elected by peers for a limited term, choosing to be a team leader is a valuable choice of leadership style. As team leader, a chair can take an active role in seeking meaningful input and full participation from everyone in the department so that faculty members can plan and organize themselves to function most effectively. Being a team leader requires setting shared goals with the department and individual goals with individual faculty members so that everyone can focus on how they can achieve departmental goals while realizing their own. Goal setting with individuals and providing feedback on performance in a supportive climate are the strongest forces a chair can use for motivating faculty. When chairs are passive because they feel there is nothing they can do, departments, and often faculty, stagnate.

2. "It is my turn in the barrel. I don't particularly want to be chair, but we all have to take a turn."

Given academic norms that administration of any sort is a necessary evil, such statements by an incoming Department Chair do not usually raise concern among faculty; on the contrary, faculty often worry that people who want to be chair may be seeking power. However, when someone doesn't want to be chair, neither the department nor its faculty will benefit by having a person in that role simply because it is his or her "turn." What is most likely is that such an individual will behave in a passive-resistive fashion and accomplish nothing for the department. Whenever he or she is chided for not taking some responsibility, the response can always be, "But I didn't ask to be chair."

3. "I am simply a peer among equals. I am not a manager."

This is a good example of generating only two options. "I am either a peer or a manager. There is nothing in between." As chair, an individual is no longer just a peer among equals. Chairs have responsibilities that are different from those of faculty members. Although all chairs have to perform some management functions, they don't have to become managers; they can become leaders.

4. "I have neither carrot nor stick. It is not possible either to reward or punish faculty members."

It is simplistic to think that rewards include only economic benefits, and that punishment means only the firing of a faculty member. There are many more meaningful ways to reward people; and punishment has so many negative side effects, it is rarely an alternative of choice in motivating others. When chairs are respected colleagues, they have the ability to reinforce faculty for the latter's work. Being taken seriously by a colleague who appreciates the quality of what an individual is doing is both rewarding and motivating. Moreover, chairs usually have major input into personnel decision making, scheduling of courses, release time, and allocation of resources. Therefore, despite the fact that it is not realistic, the perception that chairs have "neither carrot nor stick" certainly contributes to their feelings of powerlessness.

- x An advertisement draft
  - x Proposed advertisement placements: target location, deadlines, length of placement
  - x Conference attendance plans
  - x Anticipated start-up or scholarly support costs
  - x The timeline should include due dates for applications, for review of CVs and other materials (scholarship, teaching evaluations, etc.), conference dates for off and on-campus interviews, reference checking, request for additional funding with rationale and completion date of the search
- f. Submit the Search Plan with the ATE through PeopleAdmin to the DOF/VPAA (see ATE process).
- g. Consult with the DOF/VPAA about funding of travel costs to conferences (or other expenses) associated with participants from both inside or outside the department or program.

2. Developing a Position Description, Profile and Advertisement

- a. A position description should include: roles, responsibilities, functions, expectations, and minimum qualifications of the candidate.
- b. Position Profile Qualifications: qualities of an ideal candidate, degree requirements, teaching experience, area of specialization, research interests and record, and demonstrated experience that align with department and institutional priorities and goals.
- c. The advertisement should be constructed in such a way as to attract a diverse pool of applicants, and submitted for review and approval to the ADOF for Personnel prior to submission to Human Resources.
- d. The Chair submits the ad and the potential placement to the Assistant Director for EEO and Workforce Diversity for review and the EEO statement.

3. Recruiting an Inclusive Candidate Pool

- a. In order to attract a diverse pool of candidates, the chair is encouraged to target key graduate programs, professional publications, web sites, list serves and print media. S/he should consider email, direct calls, and contact with professional colleagues or senior administrators at other institutions who may have the potential to assist with the identification of diverse candidates.
- b. The DOF/VPAA, in consultation with the ADOF for Diversity or designee, will review and approve the pool of candidates before phone or conference interviews are arranged. Should they determine that the pool is not sufficiently inclusive, they may ask for additional information.

9. Guidelines for Use of Research Funds for New Tenure-Track Faculty

Start-

- x Forward paper copies of the complete dossiers to the ADOF Office including: cover letter, CVs, supporting letters, and the itinerary in a manila file folder with the candidates' names and interview dates/times on the label.
- d. The Chair, after consulting with the ADOF for Personnel , will make an offer and negotiate salary with the finalist .

C. Diversity in Hiring: Strategic Considerations<sup>1</sup>

Engaged Liberal Learning: The Plan for Skidmore College 2005-2015 sets forth the College's strategic direction and goals for the next few years. Goal II of The Plan states that we "will challenge every Skidmore student to develop the intercultural understanding and global awareness necessary to thrive in the complex and increasingly interconnected world of the 21st Century." If we are to achieve this objective, we must, in the words of Gandhi, "be the change we wish to see in the world." That is, we must first develop within and across our community the our students to develop robust cognitive abilities, enhanced critical and intercultural skills, and an appreciation of their individual and social responsibilities as citizens of the United States and the world. Meeting these objectives is crucial to our achieving new levels of excellence as one of the nation's premier liberal arts colleges.

THE ACADEMIC PROGRAM

I. Guidelines for Department/Program Biennial Reports

Department/Program biennial reports are due to the DOF/VPAA Office by June 30. The report should contain a summary of:

- x Opportunities and challenges facing the department or program
- x Enrollment patterns and/or pressures and curricular concerns
- x Efforts to support the Strategic Plan, as appropriate
- x Curricular innovations - both proposed and those in progress
- x Personnel changes and/or anticipated changes
- x Collective professional accomplishments, service, and activities of faculty, including external grants awarded or submitted, if applicable
- x Space innovations/challenges
- x Major events, lectures, and/or workshops
- x Result of assessment work this year and continued plans for future (included as a separate attachment).

A reminder will be sent by the DOF/VPAA Office to Department Chairs and Program Directors in the beginning of May. Biennial Reports are collected in the DOF/VPAA Office in binders and are read by the Dean/Associate Dean over the summer. Any questions or concerns will be addressed during the summer months.

II. Academic Assessment at Skidmore College

Think of some of the real questions you have about your curriculum and about how well your students are doing: How strong are our students' research skills? Can our students apply what they are learning outside of class? How motivated are our students to learn on their own? If our students can choose from a wide variety of electives, are they leaving our program with the same skills and knowledge, or does what they learn vary greatly from student to student? By the time our students are seniors, are they ready for their final courses or do some seem to have gaps in what they've learned? Do our introductory courses attempt to cover too much? Should we revise the sequence of our courses to enable students to learn more effectively? A good many of our courses are now four credits instead of three—do our students learn more or in greater depth as a result? These questions – and others like them – reflect the real concerns that faculty have about the effectiveness of their curricula. Finding answers to such questions is one of the most important roles for assessment.

A. Annual Assessment Report

The annual assessment report is to be included as a separate attachment to the annual program report to the DOF/VPAA. The components of the report include (1) the learning objectives or even lead to recommendations for changes to student support structures, such as the library, technology, career placement, or counseling and can provide substantial documentation supporting requests for needed resources. The most important step in any assessment program is the serious discussion by the program's faculty of the results of the assessments and what can be done to improve those results.

C. The Role of the Chair

What is the role of the Department Chair in fostering successful assessment efforts in each department? A list of responsibilities in helping the department develop an assessment plan includes the following:

- x Ensuring that all syllabi in the department include the course's goals for student learning in the course. This is a requirement for accreditation. Ideally, these should relate to the department's goals for learning in courses at that level.
- x Promoting faculty discussions of the characteristics of students (knowledge, skills, values) that graduates of the program should possess.
- x Helping faculty determine how to assess those characteristics, such as deciding which samples of student work best indicate student abilities or how assessments can be built in to the normal work of teaching rather than added on .
- x Supporting the work of faculty in conducting the actual assessments .
- x Leading faculty discussions of the results of the assessments and the implications for the content and pedagogy of the curriculum .
- x Supporting faculty efforts to improve student learning in the program, such as building the courses or assignments that are likely to help students develop those characteristics and meet our high expectations.
- x Supporting the writing and dissemination of assessment reports as appropriate .
- x Submitting the annual assessment plan and report to the Faculty Assessment Coordinator and the DOF/VPAA .

D. Assessment Methods – A Short Overview

For assessment methods, models, examples from other institutions, and resources such as research reports and a bibliography of current articles and books on assessment, go to Skidmore's assessment website: <http://www.skidmore.edu/administration/assessment/>.

Assessments may be carried out in many different ways, depending upon the depth of information and the nature of what is being assessed. The assessment methods may be categorized as either direct or indirect assessments.

1. Direct assessment methods Direct assessment methods are "direct" because they look at actual student work to determine whether the students have learned what the faculty want them to learn. Among the direct methods most commonly used are the following:
  - a. Portfolios: Student portfolios may be collected from the time that students enter a program until they graduate or may be collected for narrower time frames. Students are responsible for gathering the information that the faculty want them to gather.

- e. Internships and other field experiences: Internships and field experiences provide opportunities for students to apply their learning outside the classroom. Evaluations of student work in such experiences may provide valuable information on whether

What is the program's relationship to the various all -college programs (e.g., Asian Studies, Environmental Studies, First-Year Experience, and Gender Studies) and requirements (e.g. Cultural-Centered Inquiry, Writing, and Quantitative Reasoning)?

What would you like to see happening in the program five years from now? Ten years?

A. Curriculum Changes requiring Committee Approval: All items contained in the Skidmore College Catalog fall within the purview of the committee, with the exception of staffing considerations, such as listings of departmental personnel, the professor assigned to teach a course, and the specific term in which the course is to be taught. The following changes must receive committee approval:

1. New course proposals or substantial revision to an existing course. New courses include courses that were previously taught as topics courses in a department or program and are now being proposed as permanent courses with course descriptions appearing in the catalog. New courses also include courses that were previously taught but have since been deleted from the catalog. New course proposals should acquaint the committee members with the topics and student le

- d. If the course is to contribute to an Interdisciplinary Program, then the proposal must be submitted to the Program Director for review before consideration by the ADOF for Personnel. Consult the appropriate director for submission deadlines.
2. Major department changes should be submitted to the Committee as early as possible. Except in the most extraordinary of circumstances, the Committee cannot give immediate attention to proposals that are received after the deadline.

E. Supplemental Information About Forms

During 2000-2001, Curriculum Committee adopted a more liberal interpretation of the qualifications for Liberal Arts credit. Courses that do not now count as Liberal Arts, but which expose students to theoretical issues, may now be considered for Liberal Arts credit.

In order to expedite processing of proposals, and to provide the Chair of the Committee with a clearer sense of upcoming proposals, proposals need to be submitted to the Chair of Curriculum Committee at the same time as they are submitted to the ADOF for Personnel. Generally speaking, however, the committee will defer consideration of a proposal until the ADOF for Personnel has explored the resource implications of the proposal and signed the proposal form.

Recently, the typical change in semester hours of credit has been from 3 to 4 hours. The additional hour can be provided by a contact hour or by a flexible credit hour (which typically receives greater scrutiny from the committee). You should review the guidelines for the additional hours (

- B. Explicitly address grade penalties for violations of the academic honor code on your syllabus, especially if these penalties lie outside the Definitions and Guidelines document published by the Office of Academic Advising and provided to students when they first enter Skidmore (see link
